SAFETY FOOTWEAR STANDARDS

The ASTM F2413-11 standard covers minimum requirements for the design, performance, testing and classification of protective footwear. There are 7 protection sections under the standard (see below). Footwear must be tested (3 sample pair for each test), certified by a third party independent testing agency, and must be clearly and legibly labeled inside the footwear.

Impact (I/75): Identifies protection against impact hazards. A 50 lb. weight is dropped from a height of 18" (75 ft. lbf.) onto 3 test samples. A minimum 0.5-inch clearance (men's) and 0.468 (women's) must be maintained on all 3 test samples. Footwear shall also meet compression requirements below.

Compression (C/75): Identifies protection against rolling or compression hazards. Force of 2500 lbs. is applied to 3 test samples. Minimum clearance as above must be maintained on all 3 samples. Footwear must also meet impact requirements above.

Metatarsal (MT 75): Identifies footwear designed to protect the top of the foot from impact. A 50 lb. weight is dropped from a height of 18" (75 ft. lbf.) onto 3 test samples. A minimum 1-inch clearance (men's) and 0.937 inch (women's) must be maintained on all 3 test samples. Footwear must first meet impact and compression test above for toecap.

Conductive (CD): Identifies footwear intended to provide protection to the wearer against hazards from static electricity buildup and to reduce the possibility of ignition of explosive or volatile chemicals. Footwear shall be tested to demonstrate resistance between 0 and 500,000 ohms. Please note: Conductive footwear is not intended to be worn if working near open electrical circuits.

Electrical Hazard (EH): Identifies footwear constructed to provide a secondary level of protection against incidental contact with live electrical circuits. 3 specimens are tested to resist the application of 18,000 volts at 60 hertz for 1 minute with no current flow in excess of 1 milliampere under dry conditions. All 3 specimens must pass the minimum test requirements.

Static Dissipative (SD): Identifies footwear designed to protect against hazards that may exist due to excessively low footwear resistance while maintaining sufficiently high level of resistance to reduce the possibility of electrical shock. The footwear must have a lower limit of electrical resistance of 1 megohm and an upper limit of 100 megohms. If more stringent requirements are needed, please contact our customer service department.

Puncture Resisting (PR): Identifies footwear designed and constructed with a puncture resisting device between the insole and outsole as a permanent and integral part of the footwear. Footwear must have a minimum puncture resistance of 270 lbs. of force.

Under the ASTM guidelines, the protection provided above must be an integral and permanent part of the footwear construction and the footwear is designed to wear over the foot only. Other devices - designed to be worn over the shoe as temporary protection - do not conform to the ASTM standard.

SAFETY FOOTWEAR 101

Let's take a minute to talk about safety footwear!

There are many factors that go into making comfortable safety toe footwear. Material, construction, cushioning and support should all be considered. In order to be sure that your next safety toe shoe for work is exactly what you need, it's important to be informed about the various technologies that go into how a safety footwear is made.

The Right Safety Footwear Makes a Big Difference

- Safety footwear is one of the most common types of personal protective equipment (PPE). Most of us working in commercial, industrial, or construction sectors have to wear them every time we step foot on the worksite. But while most PPE is supplied by the employer, footwear is generally selected and purchased by the employee. That puts employers and safety professionals in a difficult place as your responsible for your employees safety. But are the employees selecting the correct safety footwear for the job they're doing in the work environment they're in?
- To help employees buy the right type of footwear, workplaces often supply them with guidelines and recommendations. This guidance, however, tends to be focused on more obvious safety factors like impact resistance, electrical resistance, or penetration. These are incredibly important, of course, but slipping and tripping need to be given attention as well. In fact, according to the National Floor Safety Institute (NSFI), slips and trips are the main driver for lost time injuries in the workplace and a frequent cause for fatalities.
- Work boots are designed to offer maximum protection to the feet, but it's important not to forget about comfort. You'll be wearing these boots day in and day out, so it's essential that they provide adequate support, comfort and fit well enough to prevent blisters and other foot problems.
- Uncomfortable footwear (and the resulting foot problems) can cause significant distraction for workers, which means they are focused on the pain or discomfort in their feet rather than on the task at hand. This is a serious safety concern that can lead to a spike in injuries, that increase absenteeism and workers' compensation claims.
- When purchasing safety footwear, it is best to purchase them from a reputable dealer who handles quality footwear. A distributor who is informed of your work and work environment will be able to provide the correct footwear for you. Quality footwear for work is expensive; but not nearly as expensive or painful as broken foot bones or other injuries from a slip, trip or fall.

Choosing The Right Footwear

- There is no single kind of footwear that is best under all conditions. So, carefully assess the conditions on your worksite and select the safety footwear that will perform best.
- Softer soles are better for slippery indoor conditions; the harder, more rugged cleat-type sole is preferred for tough outdoor use.

Select the Right Footwear to Reduce Tripping

- Ensure Proper fit
- Go with lighter footwear (when appropriate)
- Boots over shoes
- Consider laceless options

Going Green

- All trucks updated to LED lighting.
- High efficiency cooling & heating units.
- Electric generators - plug in units, when available!
- Encourage employees to donate or recycle old footwear.

FOOTWEAR TECHNOLOGY KEY

Insulation: Thinsulation™ insulation material added to the lining in boots to help keep the foot warm and comfortable in cooler environments.

Electro Static-Dissipative: Helps reduce excess static electricity by conducting the charge from the body to the ground.

Puncture Resistant (CSA): Flexible, plate minimizes the likelihood of puncture wounds. Meets US and Canadian safety standards.

Waterproof: A combination of materials designed to resist water & helps to keep the foot dry.

Security Friendly: Built with materials that should expedite trips through metal detectors and should reduce the chances of marking or scratching surfaces.

Met Guard: Help provide extra protection over the vulnerable top of the foot. Meets US and Canadian safety standards.

Electrical Hazard: Provides a secondary source of protection when outsole accidentally comes in contact with live electrical circuits, helping to reduce the potential of electrical shock. This is measured under dry conditions and may deteriorate in wet environments and with wear.

Oil & Slip Resistant: Outsole is designed to provide a high level of coefficient of friction with the walking surface to improve slip resistance.

TOE TYPES:

Steel

Steel Toe - Made of steel and epoxy coated to resist corrosion. Thinnest toe cap used in footwear to provide protection for the toe area. Steel toes meet or exceed the ASTM FS2413 standard for protective footwear.

Alloy

Alloy Toe - Made of lightweight materials like aluminum and titanium. Lightest toe cap 35% lighter than steel. Alloy toes meet or exceed the ASTM FS2413 standard for protective footwear.

Composite

Composite Toe - Made of non-ferrous elastomeric materials. Metal free (airport friendly), are 10% lighter than steel & conducts heat and cold slower than steel. Comp toes meet or exceed the ASTM FS2413 standard for protective footwear.

Carbon

Carbon Toe - 100% non-metallic (airport friendly), lightweight, and unobtrusive fit, are 15% lighter than steel & conducts heat and cold slower than steel. Carbon toes meet or exceed the ASTM FS2413 standard for protective footwear.

The D3O metatarsal components are made out of Shock material, which performs well in extreme temperatures, offering great protection. The component disperses and absorbs the impact, reducing force transmitted to the foot. The D3O's unique flexibility ensures increased comfort which allows for extended periods of more comfortable wear. D3O met guards pass both EN20345:2004 and ASTM F2412-05, when integrated into footwear.
